ABOUT

A chef who brings people together

Chef Daniel W. Thomas has cooked for Members of Congress, multiple Presidential Families, ambassadors, Cabinet officials, world leaders, celebrities and professional athletes. Classically trained at the Culinary Institute of America and Johnson & Wales University (magna cum laude), he is now helping lead a new generation of Food Is Medicine work.

His philosophy centers on real food, exceptional flavor and practical education rather than restriction. His wellness work includes the American Cancer Society, AARP, the American Diabetes Association and Walmart-sponsored live activations.
